

Lists-

- The seniority list I sent out the other day didn't have the Skilled Trades members on it. I have sent that list in email today.
- The return to home plant and return to former labor market lists were combined. I thought by seniority and last four, I was wrong. This list was put in seniority order, but not by the last four. The last four information is included on the list sent out today. The main reason for sending this list out is to ensure that people that have signed up are showing on the list. The recall list will be in seniority and last four order.
- The next lists we get, I'll request by seniority/last four and to be combined with the plant's seniority list. The combination of all lists may not happen until the plant is ready to recall.

SUB-

- Next week (week of 11/24) do not wait to submit your sub request. Get it submitted on Monday by the latest. I know we sent something out a week or so ago saying you have until 10:30 on Wednesday. Don't mess around, just get it submitted early.

Unemployment-

- We have some members (not many) that will need to open a new claim here in a week or two, take the time to check to see when your unemployment claim expires. Do not forget to open your new claim the same week your current one expires.

Postings- Please check Blog on website for flyers
